DRY AGENT KILLS HIMSELF AFTER LIQUOR RAID ON SHIP IN WHICH FIVE ARE WOUNDED

Frank J. Fitzpatrick Fires Bullet Into Heart Following Revolver Battle on Greek Vessel in Which $100,000 Liquor and Drugs Are Seized

Whole Crew of 300 Arrested as Material Witnesses After 15 Prisoners Are Taken in Fight—Suicide Had Feared Death From Tuberculosis.

Harbor Police Fire on Federal Forces in Launch Off Brooklyn, Mistaking Them for Dock Pirates, After Which Smugglers Open Fire.

Frank J. Fitzpatrick, in charge of a raiding party of prohibition enforcement and internal revenue agents which had a pistol battle with the crew of the Greek steamer King Alexander at the foot of Atlantic Avenue before daybreak to-day in which about 200 shots were fired and five men wounded, shot and killed himself as soon as the raid was over.

Fifteen prisoners had been taken. Narcotic drugs and whiskey with an estimated retail value of $100,000 had been seized. The men believed to be the ring leaders of the smugglers escaped in the confusion caused by an attack by patrolling harbor police on the raiding party, whom they mistook for dock pirates.

Later in the forenoon a small army of government agents and police, with all the patrol wagons Brooklyn could spare, were sent to the ship to bring every man and boy of the crew of 300 to the office of Assistant United States Attorney Collins "as material witnesses."

Fitzpatrick, who was ill with chronic throat trouble and believed himself tubercular, congratulated the agents on their efficient and courageous conduct in the raid and then, walking into a closet in the Atlantic Avenue ferry house, shot himself twice through the heart. He had been seven years an investigator for the government, much of the time in the narcotic division of the internal revenue department, working on illegal importations on Mediterranean steamships.

ARRANGED TO PAY $20,000 FOR DRUGS AND LIQUOR.

Fitzpatrick and Agent Ralph H. Oyster, through a stool pigeon, made arrangements with a subordinate officer of the vessel and a dock watchman for the delivery from the ship of 700 bottles of whiskey and a quantity of drugs for $20,000. According to the agreement the stool pigeon was to approach the vessel this morning with a signal and pay $200 to the watchman and $1,200 to the officer. The delivery of the contraband was to be made through an agent of the vessel and $1,000 was to be paid when it was complete.

Oyster, with his stool pigeon and Agent Oyster, was supposed

WOMAN IS KILLED IN 8-STORY LEAP AT THE BELNORD

Diving From Window Mrs. Schultz Imperils Three Passersby.

Depressed over her husband's death last spring, Mrs. Mary C. Schultz, fifty-five, committed suicide at 230 A. M. to-day by leaping from an eighth-floor window into the central court of the Belnord Apartments, occupying the block from 86th to 87th Streets, Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue.

Her body struck ten feet from where three of the Belnord watchmen were talking. They notified Supt. A. S. Vincent, who, being unable to identify the woman, called up many of the prominent families living on the south side of the building, near where the body had fallen, to find out if any one was missing.

When Mrs. Schultz's apartment on the third floor was called the telephone was answered by her niece, Miss Mary V. Reid, who lived with her. Miss Reid found her aunt's bed empty, and identified the body. Investigation showed that Mrs. Schultz had slipped out of her nine-room apartment in her nightclothes, walked on the public stairs to the eighth floor, where she had opened a window for her plunge. Dr. S. H. Adler, house physician, said death was instantaneous.

Miss Reid said her aunt had visited a brother at 155th Street and Broadway last night and did not seem to be unusually despondent when she returned. Besides mourning for her husband, her health had been failing for several months.

Her husband was Lewis Schultz, a wealthy retired business man.

NO CRIME TO PLAY CARDS FOR MONEY, SAYS MAGISTRATE

McGehean Frees 18 Prisoners and Says Such Arrests Wake People's Sore on Police.

Card playing for money is not unlawful, declared Magistrate McGeehan to-day in dismissing charges against Eddie Sherman and seventeen men arraigned before him on charges of disorderly conduct. Detective John O'Hara of the First Inspection District, who had made the arrest, testified that the men had been playing cards for money and had been making noise.

"Whoever said it was unlawful to play cards for money?" asked Magistrate McGeehan, "so long as there is no gambling, in the sense of playing as a matter of livelihood, involved. I don't see anything wrong. I play two or three times a week myself."

"Making these arrests on a disorderly conduct charge and then pressing the charge of card playing, I think, is a bad thing. People get sore on the police and become imbued with the idea that they are being harassed."

MORE WHISKEY TAKEN AT PIER; WORTH $50,000

U. S. Agents Under Orders to Seize All Liquor Arriving in New York.

MORE ARRESTS MADE.

After the seizure of 500 cases of whiskey on Pier No. 34, East River, to-day, it was learned that Federal Prohibition Agents are under orders to seize all liquors arriving in New York, regardless of whether or not there is reason for suspicion in any specific case.

Agents are stationed to watch every railroad terminal and all the steamship piers. The work is being done under the direction of E. H. Langley, whose authority is an order issued several days ago by Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy Haynes, although the decree has not yet been officially made public. The purpose is to hold every consignment of liquor until an investigation has been made.

The liquor seized to-day is valued at $50,000 (bootleg prices). It was said that the seizures now being made are deemed necessary because alleged "mushroom" drug companies are springing into life for the liquor trade.

The liquor was assigned by the Rugby Distilling Company of Louisville to the Kadeen Drug Company, No. 1574 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, and the S. & B. Drug Company, No. 156 Reade Street, Manhattan. No arrests were made, and there is no charge that these drug companies come under the "mushroom" classification. But it was said that the whiskey had been lying unclaimed on the pier for more than a week, and the Federal agents thought they had better take charge of it pending an investigation.

Agent Wittenberg headed a squad this morning in arresting two former saloon men on charges of selling liquor by the drink. The defendants are Herman Katch, No. 933 First Avenue, and John Conway, No. 322 West 49th Street. They also arrested Robert Falkner and Charles Walker, druggists, at No. 345 Eighth Avenue, on a charge of selling a pint for $4.

Those Broadway cabaret owners and restaurateurs who have found prohibition only a means to get exorbitant prices for booze are fearful to-day that a real crusade against them was begun last night when Prohibition Agents Wittenberg, Kerrigan and Popitz arrested the licensee and head waiter in the Promenade Restaurant on the Century Theatre Roof at 82d Street and Central Park West.

Sigmund Werner of No. 610 West 150th Street, the licensee, was charged with "possession and maintaining a nuisance." Joseph Buck of No. 549 West 144th Street, the head waiter, is charged with having sold the agents a half-pint flask of whiskey for $7 after the three had dinner. Werner and Buck were taken to the West 30th Street Station for the night.

When asked if their visit to the Century Roof meant a drive on cabarets and restaurants in the theatre district and upper West Side, the Federal agents intimated that it did.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE ROW TAKES RICH WOMAN TO COURT

Climax Reached When Mrs. Auerbach Calls Mrs. Smith's Antiques "Junk."

SUMMONS THEN ISSUED.

Wife of Paper Manufacturer Says Maid Told Her of Neighbor's Slurs.

A row in a Harlem flat may be a matter of daily conflict, but an argument in a small Riverside Drive apartment is something else again. Anyhow, when Mrs. Helen Smith, wife of J. Bradlee Smith, a big paper manufacturer, who resides at No. 240 Riverside Drive, appeared in the West Side Police Court this morning the court habitue sat up in wonder.

Mrs. Smith is a striking brunette, thirty years old, with soft brown eyes, and was attired in a suit in which she seemed to have been moulded. She wore a big picture hat beaded, blue silk stockings and a dainty pair of patent leather pumps. Mrs. Smith yesterday afternoon obtained from Magistrate Silberman a summons commanding the presence in court of Mrs. Louis Auerbach on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Smith told the Magistrate that Mrs. Auerbach's annoyance of her had become so terrible that they could no longer be tolerated. She had been saying nasty things about her, and the "things" were brought to her by a maid.

The climax was reached yesterday when the maid brought to Mrs. Smith a report of a terrible injustice done by Mrs. Auerbach to some antique furniture recently purchased by Mrs. Smith. It so horrified the maid that she could only whisper the words to Mrs. Smith. The words attributed to Mrs. Auerbach are now part of the court record. They were:

"Humph! Her antique furniture is a lot of old junk."

Well, when Magistrate Silberman heard that there was absolutely nothing left for him to do but issue the summons. And this morning, to further intensify the situation, Mrs. Auerbach did not appear in court. Her attorney said that she had been so upset by the receipt of the summons that she had to take to her bed, where she then was.

"You tell your client," said the Magistrate in his severest judicial tone, "to be in court at this time tomorrow morning. Otherwise (and the spectators listened with bated breath) I shall issue a warrant for her arrest."

Even Mrs. Smith shuddered, but regarding her composure, smiled again and bowing to the Magistrate walked gracefully from the court, leaving the scent of most delicate perfume in her wake.

BURGLARPROOF BEDS TO FEATURE ELECTRICAL SHOW

Light Will Disclose Traditional Foe of Old Maids—Other Quaint Devices Promised.

The man under the bed—that bugaboo of old maids and others for centuries—is to be brought to light at last.

Burglarproof beds are to be a feature of the Electrical Show here on Sept. 23.

An electric light will be affixed to the leg of the bed so that its rays will dispel any shadows of doubt as to the presence of an intruder beneath.

The Electrical Show Company also promises devices for starting the furnace, opening the windows, putting out the cat and taking in the morning paper.

SINN FEIN CABINET DIVIDED OVER BEING BOUND TO REMAIN WITHIN EMPIRE, IS REPORT

De Valera Said to Be Opposed to Acceptance of Conditions Imposed by Lloyd George.

DUBLIN, Sept. 9 (United Press). The Sinn Fein Cabinet has split over the question of whether Ireland should be bound by any conditions whatever in entering the proposed conference with the British Cabinet at Inverness. Leaders are divided over the question of Ireland's being bound to remain within the Empire.

It was freely reported after the morning meeting between members of the Sinn Fein Cabinet, which was not fully attended, that De Valera had opposed acceptance of the condition imposed by Lloyd George, namely that Ireland must remain in the British Commonwealth. The Republican President was said to be holding out firmly for a conference in which the Irish plenipotentiaries should be bound by no conditions whatever.

Arthur Griffith, the new Foreign Minister, was believed to favor acceptance of the British Government's invitation.

GIRL IS IDENTIFIED AS AUTO BANDIT BY VICTIM OF HOLD-UP

Alice De Veau Said to Be One of Band That Beat and Robbed Taxi Driver.

A young girl with yellow bobbed hair was identified in Washington Heights Court to-day as having been with two men who robbed and beat Benjamin Jaslow, a taxicab driver, early in the morning of Aug. 29. She was Alice De Veau, who said she was a waitress and lived at No. 1726 Lexington Avenue.

The identification was made by Jaslow when the girl was being arraigned on a charge of having participated, with three men, in the hold-up and robbery of a baker in his wagon in the Bronx on Monday night. The driver of the wagon failed to identify the prisoners, but Jaslow, who had been brought to court to look at them, picked out the girl as one of the trio who had robbed him.

Jaslow said that he had taken his fare aboard at Broadway and 92d Street and driven them to 214th Street. There one of the men, in a marine's uniform, covered him with a pistol, robbed him of $22, a gold watch and chain and silver cigarette case and then beat him on the head. The party left him lying on the sidewalk and drove off in the taxicab.

Magistrate Frothingham held her in $5,000 bail for a hearing on Monday.

The girl is a friend of Anna Ferrone of No. 1724 Lexington Avenue, who is in Fordham Hospital with a possible fracture of the spine, a prisoner charged with assault and robbery. Anna was arrested when an automobile whose passengers are alleged to have held up the cigar store at No. 137 Sherman Avenue, dashed into a vacant lot, throwing the girl out and seriously injuring her. A man was arrested at the same time.

KILLS HIS EX-WIFE AND HER LAWYER ON A STREET CAR

Wells Had Tied Wedding Ring to His Pistol With Black Ribbon.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Ella Wells was shot and killed and A. Louis Altmyer, a lawyer, fatally wounded in a street car in the West Roxbury district to-day. Charles A. Wells, who was divorced by his wife recently, was arrested charged with the shooting.

Passengers said that Wells, sitting two seats behind his former wife and her lawyer, drew a pistol, rested it on the shoulder of a young woman on the seat between them, then fired five shots. Mrs. Wells was killed instantly. The lawyer was wounded in the head and died at the City Hospital.

Spectators said Wells's pistol when he thrust it forward had a wedding ring tied to it with a black ribbon.

Mrs. Wells and the lawyer were on their way to court to press a complaint against Wells for failure to pay alimony and for troubling her. Wells boarded the car several stops beyond the point where his former wife and Altmyer got aboard. He opened fire without a word. Two shots struck Mrs. Wells, one in the neck and the other in the left side. Altmyer was shot in the head. None of the other passengers was injured, although windows were broken.

The operator of the car, which was of the one-man type, had thrown the door open when the shooting started to permit passengers to escape. Wells forced his way through them and slipped out, but was caught on the street by a policeman.

After arrest his only remark was a question whether the man he had shot was Altmyer. He said he was "glad of it" when told that it was officers said.

Wells had been fined in October, 1919, for assault and battery on his wife, and in December, 1919, was sentenced to six months for assault on a man at the Wells's home. Mrs. Wells obtained the divorce on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment.

Mrs. Wells obtained the custody of the three children—Hilda, sixteen, and the boys, fifteen and six years old. Hilda identified her mother's body in the hospital.

Three White and One Negro Hold-Up Men Escape in Auto.

DE VALERA WILL DROP OUT OF PEACE PARLEY, IS REPORT; ARTHUR GRIFFITH TO ACT

BRONX GRAND JURY SUMMONS ENRIGHT IN LIQUOR INQUIRY

Wants to Know About Law Enforcement and Unlawful Search and Seizure.

The August Grand Jury of the Bronx to-day directed District Attorney Glennon to issue a subpoena for Police Commissioner Enright to appear before that body a week from to-day. The jury, of which John Stratton O'Leary is the foreman, wants to examine the Commissioner as to the enforcement of the Millan-Gage Act and the unlawful search and seizure by the police.

The jury has been particularly severe in criticism of the police for arrests for alleged violation of the law. Of forty cases brought before it, thirty-eight were dismissed and the two alleged offenders indicted were persons who had been complained against.

Complaints and evidence, it is said, have been given to the jurors of the lawless manner in which the police have acted in the matter of illegal search and seizure. It is said that the first intention of the jurors was to call before them some of the subordinates in the department and question them. The reply of an Inspector of Police that he would consult headquarters when ordered by Magistrate McQuade to remove a policeman from a building prompted the jury to hear the Commissioner in preference to the smaller fry in the department.

Particularly the jurors want to know why, in view of the letters of Mayor Hylan and the repeated warnings of the Corporation Counsel, the police continue to violate the privacy of homes and flagrantly disregard the Bill of Rights.

MARKET INSPECTOR WINTER SECRETLY DISCHARGED.

General Inspector Charles A. Winter of the Department of Public Markets was removed from office last Tuesday after a hearing on charges by Commissioner O'Malley.

The hearing and dismissal of Mr. Winter were kept a secret within the department and the City Hall until a reporter jokingly said to Commissioner O'Malley this afternoon: "I hear you have fired Winter?"

"Now, who let that out?" the Commissioner asked in a stern surprise. He then admitted he had removed Winter three days ago after a hearing on the charges preferred against him. Mr. Winter when he was suspended two weeks ago. That was after witnesses before the Meyer Committee had given evidence that Winter had demanded fees for approving applications for the transfer of market stand permits, and in one instance had accepted $450 on a Ninth Avenue elevated train.

David K. Armstrong Charged with Manslaughter. NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 9.—David King Armstrong of New York, a summer resident, was charged with manslaughter in the police court to-day as a result of the death of John J. Healey, a street cleaner, who was knocked down by Armstrong's automobile. Armstrong pleaded not guilty and gave bonds for his appearance later.

In Any Case, It Is Said, the Sinn Fein Minister Will Be Chief Figure.

BOTH SIDES HOPEFUL.

Dail Eireann Meets To-Day and May Select Its Delegates at Once.

DUBLIN, Sept. 9 (Associated Press).

A rumor was current in Sinn Fein circles here to-day that if plenipotentiaries are appointed to proceed to Inverness to confer with the committee of the British Cabinet named to deal with the Irish question, Eamon De Valera, the Republican leader, does not desire to be one of them, being willing to leave the conduct of negotiations with Arthur Griffith, the Sinn Fein Foreign Minister. In any case Mr. Griffith will be the chief figure in the negotiations, once actual business is approached.

Mr. De Valera did not appear at the Mansion House this morning and was not expected until the afternoon, but Mr. Griffith and Charles Burgess, Sinn Fein Minister of Defense, were early on the scene. It was stated that no special meeting of the Sinn Fein Cabinet had been summoned to consider Prime Minister Lloyd George's reply.

DUBLIN, Sept. 9.—The Dail Eireann Cabinet will meet to-day to discuss the latest letter from Lloyd George, with its invitation to a "free and untrammelled" peace conference at Inverness on Sept. 20. The letter was delivered to De Valera at his home at Black Rock last night.

Although the Irish leaders decline to discuss the matter publicly, those in touch with them regard it as certain that they will accept the invitation and send peace envoys with plenary powers.

LONDON BELIEVES END OF IRISH PROBLEM NEAR

"Guarantees" De Valera Supposed to Have in Mind Will Not Be Allowed to Block Peace.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—For the first time since the negotiations between Premier Lloyd George and Eamon De Valera, as the Premier and spokesman for Dail Eireann, began, London frankly expresses its belief to-day that the end of the Irish problem by peaceful agreement is in sight. There are few who believe Dail Eireann will refuse to name envoys for the proposed conference at Inverness, and with both sides anxious for peace there is little doubt it will be attained.

The common ground of Irish freedom has been reached, and while Lloyd George insists that such freedom does not imply the right to set up a republic or forswear allegiance to the Crown, even the most radical Irish partisans admit he has "gone the limit" in clearing the way for a conference in leaving all other conditions open for discussion at the peace table itself.

WOMEN WILL TAKE PART IN UNEMPLOYMENT PARLEY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Women are to participate in the conference on unemployment being arranged by President Harding and Secretary Hoover. The President to-day discussed with Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Ohio the question of choosing women as delegates. Mrs. Upton was asked by the President to suggest names of women and also agreed to submit soon a list of ten. She said it was not expected that the entire list would be chosen but it was hoped three or four would be in the conference. Some of five or six women to act in an advisory or consultative capacity in the unemployment limitation conference were submitted to President Harding to-day by Mrs. Clifford Pinchot.
